Bio

Stew Estes is a Shareholder at Keating, Bucklin & McCormack, Inc., P.S. He joined the firm in 1992 after working for the Office of the Attorney General.

Since 1987, he has defended and counseled state and local government officials and agencies, and private companies and individuals. His practice focuses primarily on the defense of damage trials involving Civil Rights Act violations, police misconduct, sexual assault, and employment discrimination. He also handles issues such as training, risk management, and government-specific matters such as Public Disclosure, and coroner's inquests. He is a frequent lecturer at CLE seminars and police training events, and has served on several WSBA committees.

Stew also has an active appellate practice. He was the Chair of the Washington Defense Trial Lawyers (WDTL) Amicus Committee for 20 years, from 1998 to 2017, and has argued dozens of appellate cases. His numerous published decisions are set out below. Stew is a member of the Washington Appellate Lawyers Association (WALA). He is a co-author, along with Bryan Harnetieaux of the Amicus Practice Chapter of the Washington Appellate Practice Deskbook (4th ed 2016).

Representative Cases

Police Defense

Stew has defended over 100 cases of police officers accused of 1) excessive force through firearms, impact weapons, OC spray, and handcuffs; 2) improper vehicular pursuit; 3) false arrest; 4) malicious prosecution; 5) wrongful warrant application; and 6) wrongful seizure of property. He has handled numerous Coroner's Inquests involved officers who have employed deadly force. He recently obtained a rare victory in the Ninth Circuit, with the Court of Appeals reversing the District Court's refusal to dismiss the case on summary judgment in a fatal police shooting case.

For the past 10 years, Stew has been working to design and implement a statewide program for police officers in the area of Crisis Intervention Team (CIT) training for dealing with the mentally ill. He served on the Governor's CIT Training Steering Committee, which created a pilot program, and has been a presenter at the Criminal Justice training Commission on the topic. In 2007, Stew along with Andy Cooley and Kimberly Waldbaum, received a complete defense verdict after a five week federal court Class Action jury trial. This case is believed to be the largest civil rights class action case to go to verdict in U.S. history. The suit was brought by over 160 named plaintiffs representing a class of up to 800 Washington State University students and faculty members. The plaintiffs sought damages of over $30 million, plus punitive damages, and compensatory damages for the hundreds of class members as well. The mostly African-American Plaintiffs claimed that the use of Oleoresin Capsicum (pepper spray) by City of Pullman police officers to break up a violent night club brawl among WSU football players and others constituted excessive force, Due Process violations, negligence and was motivated by racial animus. The jury rejected all claims. A recent police shooting case received media attention.

Discrimination Cases

Sexual Harassment: Defended police commanders, public works officials, and private business managers accused of sexual or racial harassment and discrimination. Cases have been dismissed on motion, or settled for minor amounts.

Private Workplace Investigator: Defended claims of improper investigation made by Western State Hospital risk manager who was fired after client's investigation into years of his alleged sexual assault and abuse of female employees. Case dismissed on summary judgment. Successfully sued business insurance broker for failure to obtain proper insurance coverage.

Arrest of Deaf Suspect: Defended federal court lawsuit against Police Department accused of wrongfully arresting deaf female domestic violence suspect. A state statute declared that the officers' actions were unlawful because they had failed to obtain an ASL interpreter to read her Miranda rights or to interview her, and it was alleged that the ADA was violated as well. We first had the case certified to the Washington Supreme Court who invalidated the statute as unconstitutional. Next, on remand we obtained dismissal of the ADA claims relieving the officers of all liability.

Sexual Abuse and Assault Cases

Defended over 50 lawsuits brought against employers, licensors, supervising agencies, and spouses accused of negligence in sexual abuse and assault suits. Example clients and cases include:

- Department of Corrections: Negligent supervision of Level 3 sex offenders.
- Department of Children Youth and Families: Negligent investigation of child sexual and physical abuse.
- Churches and Religious Orders: Defended these organizations on claims that pastors or nuns sexually abused children.
- Group Homes: Defended the "OK Boys Ranch" lawsuits involving almost 50 claims of sexual and physical abuse by staff, other boys, and community members.
- Foster Parent defense: Defended allegations of physical "shaken baby syndrome" and sexual abuse.
- Individuals: Defended wives accused of negligently allowing their husbands to sexually abuse children.

Public Records Act

- Stew has provided day to day advice and defended lawsuits involving the Public Records Act. In 2002 he obtained the first known injunction against a citizen for his abuse of the PRA, and an assessment of sanctions.

APPELLATE CASES

Constitutional and Civil Rights Law

- Beveridge v. City of Spokane, 2021 WL 3082003, at *2 (9th Cir. 2021) (Court of Appeals affirmed Rule 12(c) dismissal of lawsuit by bounty hunters against police department who arrested and charged them with assault of bailee, holding in part that Brady does not apply to plea bargains and plaintiffs who plead guilty have no Fourteenth Amendment claims; Heck v. Humphrey barred some Civil Rights Act claims; and one who pleads guilty cannot sue for malicious prosecution);
- Medvedeva v. City of Kirkland, Washington, 720 Fed. Appx. 384 (9th Cir. 2018) (Ninth Circuit affirmed defense verdict for police officers in case that alleged they violated the constitutional rights of a mentally ill woman. The court held that the officers had probable cause to enter her apartment without a warrant and arrest the plaintiff for obstruction, and did not use excessive force in so doing, and that the officers did not arrest the plaintiff for expressing her First Amendment rights. The court also affirmed the trial court's jury instructions on the Americans with Disabilities Act);
- Lewis v. English, 739 Fed. Appx. 458 (9th Cir. 2019) (court affirmed the dismissal of constitutional and state law tort claims brought against the Seattle School District by protestors who had occupied a school building on the basis of res judicata);
- Wright v. Pierce County, 189 Wn. App. 1047 (2015) (court affirmed dismissal of Black school principal's suit alleging negligent training, negligent retention, outrage, malicious prosecution and abuse of process, defamation for his prosecution for rape, claiming prosecutors destroyed evidence and falsely swore to facts, defamed him in the media, and that detectives used suggestive interview techniques. The court held that the Deputy Prosecutors had absolute immunity and the detectives' actions, even if improper did not cause any harm because the chain of causation was broken by the prosecutor's independent decision to charge);
- Wright v. Pierce County, C11-5154 BHS, 2013 WL 4522463, (W.D. Wash. Aug. 27, 2013) (dismissing analogous federal law claims and remanding state law claims to above court).
- Watson v. City of Bonney Lake, 506 Fed. Appx. 555, 558 (9th Cir. 2013) (officers not entitled to qualified immunity on either claim if plaintiff's factual account is accepted. Defense verdict on remand).
- Campbell v. State of Washington Dep't of Soc. & Health Servs., 671 F.3d 837, 839 (9th Cir. 2011), cert. denied, 568 U.S. 883 (2012) (holding that Defendant caregivers had no constitutionally required duty of care towards woman who drowned in their care because (1) there was no special relationship between woman and the state and (2) there was no state-created danger).
- Torres v. Wilkinson, 610 F.3d 546 (9th Cir. 2010) (holding as a matter of law that police officer who shot and killed fleeing suspect did not violate his constitutional rights regarding excessive force);
- Des Moines Marina Assn v. City Of Des Moines, review denied, 154 Wn.2d 1018, 113 P.3d 1040 (2005) (Imposition of higher moorage rates on non-resident tenants of marina does not violate Equal Protection clause; no standing by association to sue on behalf of tenants; and City has statutory authority to charge market rates for moorage);
- Benjamin v. Washington State Bar Assn., 138 W.2d 506, 978 P.2d 742 (1999)(implied right of action under free speech clause of Washington Constitution);
- Edgar v. City of Tacoma, 129 Wn.2d 621, 919 P.2d 1236 (1996) (right to jury trial and the 1993 amendments to the Tort Reform Act);

- Patrice v. Murphy, 136 Wn. 2d 845, 966 P.2d 1271 (1998) (legislative bill title requirements of Washington Const., Art. II, Section 19; and, interpreters for deaf suspects in police investigations);
- Bankruptcy Estate of Hansen v. City Of Kent, 81 Wn. App. 270, 914 P.2d 127, review denied, 130 Wn. 2d 1008 (1996)(res judicata and collateral estoppel in Civil Rights Act case, and proximate cause for judge's erroneous issuance of search warrant);
- Ochsner v. Board of Trustees of Community College Dist. No. 17, 61 Wn. App. 772, 811 P.2d 985 (1991) (breach of educational contract by arbitrary & capricious assignment of a failing grade).

Tort Law

- Gerlach v. Cove Apartments, LLC, 97325-3, 2020 WL 5048574 (Wash. Aug. 27, 2020) (interpreting the intoxication affirmative defense);
- Beltran-Serrano v. City of Tacoma, 193 Wn.2d 537, 540, 442 P.3d 608, 609 (2019) (holding that the fact that an officer's conduct may constitute assault and battery does not preclude a negligence claim premised on her alleged failure to use ordinary care to avoid unreasonably escalating the encounter to the use of deadly force);
- Husted v. State, 187 Wn. App. 579, 590, 348 P.3d 776, 781, review denied, 184 Wash.2d 1011 (2015) (concluding that where an offender absconds from supervision and a warrant is issued for his or her arrest, the requisite continuing relationship no longer exists and the duties associated with the take charge relationship are terminated unless and until the person is apprehended. Accordingly, the State had no duty to control the offender's behavior);
- Jones v. City of Seattle, 179 Wn.2d 322, 327, 314 P.3d 380, 382 (2013), as corrected (Feb. 5, 2014) (finding that the trial court erred in excluding testimony by the late-disclosed witnesses, but such error was harmless);
- Collings v. City First Mortgage Servs., LLC, 177 Wn. App. 908, 923, 317 P.3d 1047, 1055 (2013), review denied, 179 Wash.2d 1028 (2014) (trial court did not abuse its discretion by denying defendant a new trial based on the lack of disclosure of the plaintiff's Mary Carter agreement);
- Worthington v. City of Bremerton, 176 Wn. App. 1035 (2013) (medical marijuana patient's claims for negligence, conversion, trespass to land, nuisance for seizure of plants are barred by the statute of limitations despite allegations of fraudulent concealment of facts by drug task force);
- Barton v. State, Dep't of Transp., 178 Wn.2d 193, 199, 308 P.3d 597, 601 (2013) (plaintiff's concealment of "Mary Carter" covenant not to execute did not warrant a new trial, only sanctions for plaintiff's counsel);
- Lowman v. Wilbur, 178 Wn.2d 165, 171, 309 P.3d 387, 391 (2013) (holding that if vehicle passenger's injuries were in fact caused by the placement of the utility pole too close to the roadway, then they cannot be deemed too remote for purposes of legal causation);
- M.R.B. v. Puyallup School District., 169 Wn. App. 837, 839-40, 282 P.3d 1124, 1126 (2012) (affirming defense verdict and summary judgment in suit based on high school's student newspaper publishing an issue featuring articles on oral sex and quoting students, claiming invasion of privacy, negligent hiring and supervision, negligence, and outrage);

- Todd v. City of Auburn, 425 Fed. Appx. 613, 615 (9th Cir. 2011) (affirming dismissal of class action of citizens fined by multiple cities' automated red lights or school speed zones cameras, arguing that the fines they received for these infractions exceed limits set by statute and that payment provisions in the cities' contracts with the camera companies violate statutory restrictions on the form of compensation).
- Fisk v. City of Kirkland, 164 Wn.2d 891, 194 P.3d 984 (2008) (public duty doctrine case prevents city liability for negligent maintenance of water supply system);
- Stiefel v City of Kent, 132 Wn. App. 523; 132 P.3d 1111 (2005), review dismissed, __ Wn 2d __ (2006) (public duty doctrine case prevents city liability for negligent maintenance of water supply system);
- Joyce v. State; 155 Wn. 2d 306, 119 P.2d 825 (2005)(negligent parole supervision suit; agency policies do not establish duties);
- Tegman v. Accidental and Medical Investigations, 150 Wn.2d 102; 75 P.3d 497_ (2004)(segregating damages between negligent and intentional tortfeasors);
- Kloepfel v. Boker, 149 Wn.2d 192, 66 P.3d 630 (2003) (elements of the tort of outrage);
- Estate of Lowry v. City of Auburn, 111 Wn. App. 1026 (2002) (under the "Fireman's Rule," or assumption of risk, an officer who allowed an armed man to leave scene despite his assaultive behavior is not liable to a SWAT officer in a different jurisdiction who was killed entering the man's house to arrest him);
- Cox v. Spangler; 141 Wn.2d 431, 5 P.3d 1265 (2000) (burden of segregating indivisible injury in successive tort-feasor case, and collateral source rule);
- Hiner v. Bridgestone/Firestone, Inc., 138 Wn. 2d 248, 978 P.2d 505 (1999) (application of Tort Reform Act comparative fault to Product Liability Act);
- Welch v. Southland Corp., 134 Wn. 2d 629, 952 P.2d 162 (1998) (apportionment of fault to an intentional tortfeasor under Tort Reform);
- Savage v. State of Washington, 127 Wn.2d 434, 899 P.2d 1270 (1995) (qualified immunity for public employees and employers);
- Samuelson v. Community College District No. 2, 75 Wn. App. 340 877 P.2d 734 (1994), review denied, 125 Wn. 2d 1023 (1995) (discovery rule exception to statute of limitations, and duty of oversight agency to inform professors of retirement plans);
- Anderson v. City of Seattle, 123 Wn.2d 847, 873 P.2d 489 (1994) (joint and several liability with a bankrupt defendant under Tort Reform Act of 1986);
